DEATH.

At Chefoo, on the 14th of September, 1894, at his residence, Beach House, WILLIAM ROBERT FULLER, aged 59.

The Daily Press.

HONGKONG, SEPTEMBER 26TH, 1894.

It is now twenty-four years since the Government took steps for the protection of wild birds in Hongkong. In moving the second reading of the Bill introduced for that purpose the Attorney-General said the object of the enactment was not in any way to interfere with legitimate sport, but to prevent the wholesale slaughter of birds not game. The preamble of the Ordinance recited that the destruction of birds had of late greatly increased, and that it was expedient to make provision for their preservation. The killing or wounding of birds was therefore created a misdemeanour, but the definition clause excluded birds of game and birds of prey from the operation of the Ordinance. Under the influence of this protective measure and the increase of cover due to the operations of the Afforestation department the number of birds on the island has largely increased. In 1885 the law was amended by placing wild birds and game in one category and it was provided that the Governor-in-Council may grant licences "to shoot and "take game or wild birds or any particular "description of game or wild birds "within any particular districts or localities in this Colony." At the time that Ordinance was passed a scheme was on hand for the introduction of game on an extensive scale, an Association having been formed for that purpose. The scheme failed, chiefly through the dishonesty of the secretary, who ran away with the funds, but had the prospects been considered favourable the Association would hardly have been deterred from a second trial. With the disappearance of the Secretary, however, the Association practically passed out of existence and no further attempt was made to introduce game until the other day, when the Captain Superintendent of Police conceived the idea of introducing pheasants, for which purpose he has, we understand, been granted the exclusive privilege of shooting and taking game or wild birds on Tytam Peninsula for a term of years. In pursuit of this scheme the Captain Superintendent desired the destruction of all hawks and magpies within his domain and the work has already been carried out so completely that it is said there is not a magpie to be seen there now, the whole of them having been killed off by poisoned eggs. This is a proceeding to be regretted. The hawks we might afford to lose, for they are common enemies. Magpies, too, prey on the eggs and young of other birds, but they are not so emphatically birds of prey as the hawks, and they are an agreeable feature in the life of the island. Pheasants, on the other hand, cannot live here, unless artificially fed, because there is no natural food for them, and Mr. MAY's experiment is therefore doomed to failure. Even if there was a prospect of partial success in the rearing of pheasants the extermination of the magpies would still be a matter of regret, and it is doubly so when there is no purpose whatever to be served by it. Another consideration, of a totally different character, also arises, namely, the expediency of granting exclusive privileges of the kind in question to any official, or indeed, for the matter of that, to any unofficial. Mr. MAY in entering on his scheme has, it is needless to say, been influenced solely by a love of sport, and his ideas are not selfish, inasmuch as other sportsmen would, we believe, in course of time be allowed to join him. He has entered on the work single-handed, and from a purely sporting point of view deserves nothing but praise for undertaking at his own pecuniary risk such a doubtful experiment. But the precedent of granting exclusive privileges to an official is necessarily attended with grave objection, as it opens the door to abuses. If Tytam Peninsula is granted to Mr. MAY, in the same way other districts may be granted to other officials, and we might have the whole island parcelled out amongst half-a-dozen favoured individuals. That, of course, is not at all likely to happen, but seeing how difficult it is to keep the public service free from scandal any apparent loophole for abuse should be avoided. If Mr. MAY should be called upon to give up his pheasantry before he is personally satisfied that the experiment cannot succeed every one will sympathise with him in his disappointment, but service considerations as well as the objections to the wholesale destruction of the wild birds of the island seem to render such a course expedient.

The Russian gunboat Koreyts arrived at Shanghai on the 21st inst. from Chemulpo, which she left on the 18th.

According to latest advices from the North the British squadron had left Chefoo for a cruise and were expected at Chemulpo.

Owing to the inclemency of the weather Allison's Vaudeville Company did not play last night, but will appear to-night instead.

The O. S. S. Co.'s steamer Pelamed left Singapore yesterday morning, and may be expected here on Monday, the 1st October.

The series of articles on Sanitation by Mr. St. John H. Hancock which have appeared in our columns have been reprinted in pamphlet form.

The report of the Hongkong Football Club for the season 1893-94 has been issued. Brevity is its chief characteristic. It states that a number of interesting and closely contested matches were played during the season under Rugby and Association rules, and that the number of members is 70.

The Mercury states that Messrs. Jardine, Matheson & Co. have received a message from the Foreign Office stating that Lord Kimberley has notified the Japanese Government that they hold them responsible for sinking the Kowshing. By this we presume is meant, merely pecuniary responsibility, according to the well established rule of international law that when in operations of war one of the belligerents finds it necessary to destroy the property of a neutral he is justified in doing so but must compensate the owners.

A peculiar accident, we learn from the N. C. Daily News, happened to the Nerstein on the 18th inst. when at Woosung outward bound to Tientsin. She passed the Woosung Lighthouse at full speed, and while doing so one of her anchors, which was hanging at the cathead, suddenly dropped, and the chain ran out at a great rate and snapped when it came to the end. The steamer then went out to the Woosung Spit Buoy and anchored, intending to recover the anchor and chain, but none of the local grab-boat people would undertake the job, as they feared they might interfere with some submarine cable connected with the forts.

The Hongkong and Shanghai, Chartered, and National Banks issued the following notice in Yokohama on the 13th inst.:—

The undermentioned Banks hereby beg to notify their Constituents that, until further notice, cheques or drafts on Japanese Banks and firms in Yokohama, except ng those on the Shokin Ginko, received after 1.45 p.m. on ordinary days, and 10.45 a.m. on Saturdays, will not be placed to credit of accounts until the following day, or until realised, as owing to the risk apprehended by Chinese Collectors in consequence of the present relations between China and Japan, the said Banks have resolved to confine the collection of such cheques and drafts to the clearing account system now in vogue, which does not admit of clearances being effected after the hours specified above.

REUTER'S TELEGRAMS.

[SUPPLIED TO THE "DAILY PRESS."]

LONDON, 24th September.

GREAT BRITAIN AND JAPAN.

The Times states that the Policy of Great Britain towards Japan is entirely a well wishing one, and that the two countries have no conflicting interests. It warns Japan against Russia's hankering to secure a harbour in the Pacific open the year round, which if obtained would be equally menacing to Great Britain and Japan.

In the event of foreign intervention in the present war, the Times expects that Great Britain and Japan will stand together.

THE WAR.

THE RECENT NAVAL ENGAGEMENT.

The following is the Japanese official account of the recent naval engagement:—

On the 17th inst. the Japanese fleet consisting of the Matsushima, Itsukushima, Hashidate, Yoshino, Naniwa, Takachiho, Akitsushima, Chiyoda, Hiyei, Fuso, Akagi, and Saikio Maru met off the north-east coast of Haiyang Bay with the Chinese fleet consisting of the Ting Yuen, Chen Yuen, Ching Yuen, Chi Yuen, Lai Yuen, King Yuen, Wei Yuen, Tung Wei, Chao Yung, Kwang Kay, Kwang Ping, Ping Yuen, and other men-of-war, with six torpedo boats. Fire was opened at forty-five minutes past noon and severe fighting lasted till 5 p.m. At last four of the Chinese men-of-war, the Lai Yuen, King Yuen, Tung Wei, and Chao Yung were sunk and the Ting Yuen, Ching Yuen, and Ping Yuen caught fire, and all the other ships having suffered serious damage were scattered.

On the Japanese side more or less damage was received by the Matsushima, Hiyei, and Akagi, but none of them was disabled.

Among the Japanese officers killed are Commander Sakamoto, of the Akagi, two first lieutenants of the Hashidate, one first and one second lieutenant of the Matsushima, one first lieutenant of the Yoshino, two doctors, and about thirty non-commissioned officers and men. The number of wounded amounted to 160.

From Shanghai papers received yesterday it would seem that the Chinese fleet was convoying the transports Chaitung, Haeting, Hainyn, Toonan, and two Pings, and that the troops had been safely landed before the Japanese came up. The statement that four Japanese ships were sunk seems to rest on the authority of the Captain of the Tsi-yuen, "which was sent out of action and witnessed the fight from a distance." The Chefoo correspondent of the Mercury, writing on the 19th inst., after mentioning the Chinese loss, says:—"The Chinese are very much upset about the matter, and are endeavouring to spread a report that four of the Japanese men-of-war have been sunk, but I am assured that nothing was in the telegram about the loss on the Japanese side."

WHERE IS THE JAPANESE ARMY?

The N. C. Daily News, in the course of an article on the situation, says:—It is supposed, again, that having captured Pingyang and thus freed northern Korea from the Chinese yoke, the Japanese will now move their army by sea to the Gulf of Pechili. This suggests the question: Where is the Japanese army? If there were only twenty thousand Japanese at Pingyang, where is the rest of the army? At least three times that number of men have left Japan in transports; where are they? We were assured at one time that a large force had been landed in Society Bay to the north of Port Arthur, and there have been rumours of landings on the west shore of the Gulf of Pechili, but none of these reports have been confirmed. We are assured from Japanese sources, and in this they differ largely from our Korean correspondent, that their losses so far in Korea have been trivial; there is therefore a large army somewhere of which we have not lost track, because its track has never been known to us. Where is it?

Since the above was written we have received a letter from an occasional correspondent at Tientsin, mentioning the report that a large Japanese force has been landed at Longchuen on the coast of Shingking, west of the Yalu river, and south of Moukden. Is this the missing army?

THE CONDUCT OF THE JAPANESE.

In justice to the Japanese at Chemulpo we (N. C. Daily News) publish the following extract from a private letter received here from a foreign firm at that port:—"The Japanese soldiers are under perfect control and keep order among the people wherever they are. The reports in your Shanghai papers regarding the behaviour of the Japanese troops are quite incorrect. We have some 4,000 Chinese still here in Chemulpo who have not been insulted or annoyed in any way by the Japanese soldiers, and attend freely to their business—Chinese peddlers sell vegetables, etc., in the Japanese settlement to Japanese soldiers, which shows that the Japanese mean what they say, when they proclaim that private persons, Chinese or others, will not be molested."—We have also received a letter from a foreigner in Chemulpo, who finds what he considers inaccuracies in a letter from our Korean correspondent, published by us on the 22nd ult. He says that there were not more than 5,000 Japanese at Yashan, and that while it was a blunder allowing General Yeh and his troops to escape, yet they had to leave all their arms behind them. There had only been one suicide, and he throws doubts on the story of the Japanese forces fleeing on each other. The Japanese only lost 70 killed and 100 wounded at Yashan. Nothing had happened to the Matsushima, and the mistake arose from a Rear-Admiral being put on the Yoshino. The Yaeyama is not a fighting ship. The Yoshino was hit three times, but not seriously, "and she has not been near a dockyard." The fighting in the north mentioned by our correspondent was a small affair in which a scouting party of five troopers and two interpreters were surrounded by the Chinese, and cut off, only two escaping. The story of the Chinese soldiers from Yashan tied à la Corsenne is exaggerated; there were only two, and they have been well treated. The soldiers that returned from Yashan marched in sandals in preference to boots; they were tired, but they all had hats, coats, and accoutrements. Many misapprehensions arise from baggage coolies, who are "a dirty lot, only having a short coat with no hat or anything else," being mistaken for soldiers.

THE TYPHOON.

JUNKS AND SAMPANS WRECKED.

NUMEROUS LIVES LOST.

THE GOVERNMENT DREDGER SUNK.

The heaviest gale which has visited the colony for many years was experienced during the early hours of yesterday morning, and, although the tale of destruction which has to be told is not nearly so serious as might reasonably have been feared, it is still considerable. It is a singular coincidence that on September 25th, 1894, there should have been a repetition (though fortunately on a much smaller scale) of the never to be forgotten typhoon of September 24th, 1874, when over 2,000 lives were lost and incalculable damage was done both on land and sea. During the height of the blow yesterday, when typhoon gusts carried away doors and windows and howled round the houses, old residents were reminded of that occasion, and the remarkable coincidence noted was strongly suggestive in itself of another such calamity.

The meteorological report issued on Monday did not contain any intimation that we might expect to feel much of the typhoon which left Luzon the other day. Although the report stated that the depression appeared to have moved westward since Sunday and to be situated to the west of North Luzon, the red drum was kept hoisted all day, signifying a typhoon to the eastward distant more than three hundred miles, and as typhoons so situated generally strike north of the colony not much alarm was felt, notwithstanding the threatening appearance of the weather, and most people were taken by surprise when the gun was fired shortly after eleven.

About 9 o'clock the wind steadily increased, and at 11 o'clock was blowing with sufficient force to suggest to a number of the small craft the desirability of seeking shelter. About 11.20 p.m. one round was fired by the gun at the Kowloon flagstaff, and at that time a rather heavy sea in the harbour was making things afloat unpleasant. With as much expedition as possible most of the remaining native craft made for Wanchai Bay, and the launches still running also made for safety. About midnight there could be no question about the approach of the typhoon. The barometer steadily declined to 29.47, the wind rose to nearly full typhoon force, and the harbour became a seething froth. The waves broke heavily on the Praya wall scattering huge clouds of spray against the buildings opposite, and at exposed points here up the road very considerably. The warning given by the Observatory was so late, and the storm increased so rapidly, that much damage was done which an earlier notification would have avoided. At 5 o'clock yesterday morning two rounds were fired indicating the approach of the typhoon, and at that time the storm was at its height and the barometer at the lowest point. From that time forward the weather moderated somewhat, although all through yesterday rain fell almost continuously, a heavy swell existed in the harbour, and severe squalls were experienced.

When the first gun was fired most of the steamers in the harbour either made for the back of Stonecutter's Island or made doubly secure by letting go an extra anchor. It is satisfactory to be able to report that no accidents to the big ships occurred, although a few dragged their anchors for some distance and were at times in considerable danger.

One of the narrowest escapes was that experienced by the Esmeralda. She dragged her moorings from the fairway to quite close to the Reclamation piles. At six o'clock yesterday morning she was not more than twenty yards from being ashore, but by great exertions she was kept off, and when steam was up she took a safe position opposite the P. and O. wharf, near the N. D. L. steamer Gera, which had left her Kowloon station and come over to the Hongkong side.

The P. and O. steamer Ancona dragged her anchors and was carried some distance down the harbour, at one time being rather dangerously close to the Tacoma. She had steam up, however, and soon came back to her old position where she re-anchored.

A number of sampans, which had not cleared, either through stress of weather or unbelief in the approach of a gale, were dashed against the Praya and broken up like eggshells. Whether any lives were lost thereby it is impossible to learn. In all probability the majority of the occupants of the boats were able to get ashore, but it is pretty certain that in the darkness of the night some loss of life must have been occasioned. No bodies, however, have been recovered.

The boats lying at West Point, one of the most exposed situations, fared the worst. About a dozen large junks were there stationed, and in the morning two or three had disappeared, while others were waterlogged. One had on board a number of Chinese who had transhipped, with a quantity of valuable baggage, from the China. In the early morning it was seen that this boat was in a sinking condition. The passengers were taken off by a launch with her luggage, but most of the things were lost.

Two junks at the Kwong Hoi wharf were wrecked and their crews are supposed to have been lost.

An item to be mentioned is the valuable and energetic service rendered during the night by the Harbour Master and his assistants. Mr. Blayney, who already has distinguished himself in connection with the plague, was most indefatigable in his endeavours to rescue the imperilled junks. He ran down to the Naval Yard to obtain life saving apparatus and some assistance. A few men joined him and they proceeded back to West Point with life buoys and lines. It seems strange, however, and we feel we can properly mention the fact in this connection, that although we have here so many miles of sea frontage and are peculiarly liable to great storms, there is not such a thing as a rocket apparatus in the colony.

The Government dredger, which has been employed for some time on work connected with the new Reclamation work, sank yesterday morning opposite the Victoria wharf. Those on board were getting up steam intending to seek a more sheltered anchorage. A violent gust turned the dredger completely over, and she went down in about 10 feet of water into a soft mud bottom. Strange to say the boilers did not explode. It is not known whether any lives are lost, but it is feared that some of the stokers could not have escaped.

The hulk Hygeia appeared for some time during the morning to be in danger of dragging her anchors and drifting ashore. She certainly indulged in peculiar movements, coming up and mooring round in an extraordinary fashion; but she weathered it out serenely and apparently is none the worse.

The matsheds on the new and old Peddar's Wharves were stripped of their roofs, but the frame works withstood the force of the wind. A good many similar insubstantial structures in various parts of the colony were, however, blown completely away.

The Victoria Recreation Club's premises, as is usual when a blow comes, suffered seriously. The roof was badly damaged, and the bathing raft also was knocked about in a manner which will make a hole into the Club's "typhoon fund."

Private residents all over the city report damage of varying extent. Windows and verandahs were broken, and in two houses in Gage Street a portion of the side walls were blown in. To show the force of the wind an occurrence at Ripon Terrace might be mentioned. A large fixed window to a bath-room overlooking the staircase was blown completely out—frame and all—by the wind which made its way through the chinks and crannies of the verandah door—properly bolted and fixed up—opposite to it.

Telegraphic communication with both Macao and the Gap Rock was yesterday interrupted, presumably by reason of the weather.

Necessarily some damage was done to the trees. One or two were blown down and most suffered the lopping off of a few limbs, the roads being strewn with broken branches.

At Kowloon the typhoon was felt with great severity. Two junks were driven ashore in Hunghom Bay, a bamboo pier was demolished, and the shear legs of Blackhead's Wharf were swept away. Minor damages are also reported.

A number of junks that took shelter at Yaumati were dismasted or otherwise disabled. No lives are as yet reported lost.

The Kowloon ferry, of course, did not run yesterday morning. In the afternoon the launches commenced the connection, and kept it up until 8 o'clock.

Some telegraph and telephone wires were observed to be broken or damaged in various places, partly by the force of the wind and partly by falling branches.

Only a few of the Peak residents, who, of course, were not able to use the tram, ventured the descent, and naturally their experiences were the reverse of pleasant. One gentleman, whom the wind caught to a mean advantage in the bush, found his pace so alarmingly accelerated that, to avert a collision with some substantial structure in which he might have come off second best, he dropped gracefully down, and after rolling a dozen yards or so brought himself up. He didn't come down town in those clothes. We have not heard of any special damage to Peak residences, but doubtless there will be the usual reports of incidental breakages.

A rather curious instance of recovering lost property occurred in connection with the storm. A gentleman who was down at West Point jumping around with commendable agility discovered on his return home that he had lost his gold watch. Remembering one particularly fine jumping feat, over a muddy stream, which was calculated to relieve his pockets of anything loose, he hurried back in a "sikshu" to the spot. It was a forlorn hope, of course, but what was his astonishment to see resting on the rail mud-bespattered and great was his exultation when with it safely in his hand he espied a coolie, who had observed it at the same moment, coming hastily to the spot. The "hiyahs" which a crowd of Chinamen close by raised when they saw the little episode, the chagrin of the coolie, and the smug satisfaction of the owner were things, we imagine, which were exceedingly amusing.

A number of seafaring men yesterday, after the manner of their kind, were disposed to discount the force of the storm. One skipper said it was not blowing more than force 8, but the Observatory record put it as force 11 (typhoon force is 12) and as this is registered by scientific apparatus we may be assured that the blow was one of the severest we have experienced, and often approached to the strength of a full typhoon.

The Observatory report issued yesterday was as follows:—"On the 24th at 6.10 p.m. red south cone hoisted. At 10.20 p.m., two lanterns hoisted vertically. At 11.10 p.m., gun fired one round. Typhoon S.S.E. of Hongkong, appears to have altered its course, and to be now moving in a north-westerly direction. Strong north-east to south-east gale expected in Hongkong. On the 25th, black south cone hoisted before daylight. At 6 a.m. The barometer is falling rapidly and it is probable that the centre of the typhoon will enter the coast at no great distance to the west of the colony. Typhoon force of wind will probably be experienced from E. to S.E. Gun fired two rounds. At 11.59 a.m., black ball hoisted." The black ball signifies that the typhoon has passed to the westward.

POLICE COURT.

25th September.

BEFORE COMMANDER W. C. H. HASTINGS.

KIDNAPPING.

Chan Chau, of no occupation, was brought up on a charge of unlawfully and by intimidation bringing one Wong Cho, unemployed, into the colony for the purpose of emigration, on the 25th inst.

Wong Cho stated that on the 24th inst. he met the defendant, who was a stranger to him, at Canton. Defendant gave him fifty cents with which to go and have some rice in an eating house, after which defendant wanted to take him to Singapore. He refused, but defendant said that he having eaten his rice he was bound to obey, or else he would kill him. Complainant then went with him on board a white vessel. Defendant paid his passage down, and they arrived here yesterday morning. On landing they met a lokong, who arrested them. Complainant came against his will, and did not wish to go to Singapore; he came because he had spent defendant's money and was afraid.

Kong Pin, district watchman, proved the arrest of the defendant at 2.30 a.m. in Wing Lock Street. His suspicion was aroused, and he asked the complainant if he had come down to carry earth. From what the complainant said in reply to his questions he arrested the defendant.

Defendant said that a friend had asked him to take the complainant down to Singapore. He was going there himself.

Sentenced to six months' hard labour.

IN POSSESSION OF AMMUNITION.

Loh Un Chin, watchman on board the steamer Tai On, was charged with having in his possession 600 revolver cartridges on board that steamer on the 24th inst. He admitted the charge and was bound over in the sum of $10 to be of good behaviour for three months, in default to be committed for ten days.

The ammunition was confiscated.

THE SHANGHAI SHARE MARKET.

Mr. B. Ruttunjee in his weekly share report dated Shanghai, 20th September, says:—

During the past week investments in the more sound securities have proceeded with little interruption, and, as a result, this share market generally has remained very firm.

Banks.—Hongkong Banks continue to change hands at 98 per cent prem. In other stocks nothing reported.

Insurances.—Marine—There is a general enquiry for all these stocks:—Cantons, Unions, North-China and Straits are wanted at previous rates, and business in Yangtszes and Traders at advanced rates have been reported, viz., $77 and $68. Fire—In this department, the decline in Hongkongs from $185 to $180 has to be noticed.

Shipping.—The only business locally under this heading has been in Indo-Chinas at Tls. 33, at which price more shares might be obtainable. From Hongkong, Douglas Steamships have been purchased at the equivalent of about $54.50, cum div.

Cargo Boats.—Shanghais have again fetched Tls. 127.50, whilst Co-ops are obtainable at par.

WHARVES & DOCKS.—Wharf shares remain quiet. In Docks, Hongkong and Whampoa changed hands locally at 79 per cent prem.

MINING.—Raubs are wanted at quotation.

LANDS.—Shanghais have been sold at Tls. 335.50.

MISCELLANEOUS.—Gas shares have found buyers at Tls. 212.50, and Waterworks changed ownerships at Tls. 166. In Sugars sales from Tls. 36.50 up to Tls. 38 have been made public.

THE LOSS OF THE "CHEAN."

STORY OF A SURVIVOR.

A survivor of the Tientsin steamer Chean, which was lost in the Shetan Straits, who arrived in the Pekin, has furnished us with the details of the disaster, which from our personal knowledge of the narrator may be considered authentic.

The Chean left Shanghai at 3 a.m. on the 2nd instant, and proceeded to Chinkiang where about 1,000 soldiers were embarked. The soldiers were to be conveyed to Tainan, in the southern part of Formosa. The crew numbered about sixty, the captain being Tau Pah-lang, who was formerly a quarter-master of the Lienshing. Kong Wun Lo were in charge of the soldiers. The Chean returned to Woosung and dropped sixteen carpenters, and then proceeded to Chusan. There the Chean stopped to allow for the burial of a soldier. The steamer was there painted black, with a white line. The steamer next proceeded to Chapoo. At midnight, when off Chapoo an alarm of fire was raised, but it was found to be false. This created a commotion among the soldiers. They passed Chusan, and two days later experienced a N.E. wind and a rough sea. At night on the 9th inst., the Captain was on duty till seven o'clock. He then went to bed and the chief mate was placed in charge. The chief mate sat down and went off to sleep, and shortly after the ship struck on a rock. There was a rough sea at the time, but it being a bright night the rock could be seen. The ship slid from the rock. By this time the Captain was on deck, and the soldiers followed. The soldiers became unmanageable and attacked the quartermaster at the wheel, desiring to run the vessel ashore. The quarter-master stuck to the wheel, and he was attacked with knives by the soldiers and his arm was cut considerably. The captain expostulated and his reasoning was successful, and he at length succeeded in beaching the vessel. Two of the ship's boats had been lowered and were sunk by the number of soldiers that entered them. Some of the soldiers ran below and stripped the cabins of the sailors. The stairs between decks were broken, and a few sailors and soldiers thus perished as the stern of the vessel settled in the water. Some fishermen's boats put off and the officers, soldiers, and crew were landed. On landing the soldiers robbed their preservers, the fishermen, and stripped them of their clothing. Our informant with the Captain, and some of the crew, fled inland and hid themselves, and were hospitably treated by the villagers. On the 11th our informant, with the Captain and crew left for Taopang-mung, and next reached Sung-mon-chong. The soldiers had also arrived there and were taken charge of by a military officer. The narrator and his party proceeded overland and by boat, and at length reached Ningpo. They were not at all assisted by the different mandarins of the places they passed through. They embarked in the Pekin and reached Shanghai on Tuesday, 17th instant. Their expenses to Shanghai from Ningpo were paid by Liang, a compradore on the Chean, and the captain of the Chean promised to reimburse the money to him on arrival at Shanghai.—Mercury.

A ROMANCE OF RORKE'S DRIFT.

We (Singapore Free Press) feel pretty sure that our gallant friend Lt.-Col. Chard, R.E., on that eventful night at Rorke's Drift when he and Gonville Bromhead repelled the Zulu onslaught after the disaster at Isandlhwana, had little idea that that heroic night of struggle was to be the dawn of a soldier's romance. Answers, in its competition for the most interesting "Romantic Marriage," gives this as one of the examples selected for publication in its issue of Aug. 18th:—

INTRODUCED ON THE BATTLE FIELD.

I was introduced to my wife on the awful field of that fight at Rorke's Drift, when we (a handful) of the gallant 80th Regiment, under that young lion Jack Chard (God bless him as one of the bravest heroes Britain has ever produced!) made a stand against over 3,000 Zulus.

It was in that heroic defence that a chum of mine "bit the dust" while gallantly fighting by my side in one of the six hand to hand tussles when the Zulus rushed our barricade of bags and biscuit tins.

Almost the last words were "Poor Emily!" She was his sweetheart, and he gathered his breath to grasp just a few words, a message of love to her. That message I delivered myself, with a piece of his hair which I had cut off and her photo, which was in his pocket at the time of his death.

I have seen some sorrowful sights in my time and it takes a good deal to bring tears to a soldier's eyes, but I'm not ashamed to say they came to mine when I saw her grief as I told her his last thoughts were of her.

Poor chap! He might well grieve to leave such a girl; I fell in love with her while I was telling her the story, and we have been married now over nine years.

SPORT AND ANECDOTE.

BY AN OLD FOGEY.

THE SMALL PLEASURES OF LIFE.

My dear good readers, let me ask if you have ever read "The Master Builder," by Henrik Ibsen. It seems to me a weird, philosophical play. Its greatest charm to me lies in the naturalness and strength of the dialogue. A passage which now comes into my mind seems particularly appropriate to the subject I have set out to discuss. Poor, melancholy Mrs. Solness, the wife of "The Master Builder," is talking to Hilda Wangel about the fire by which she and her husband lost property and two little boys. The sad mother expressed a desire that Hilda would not refer again to the fate of her sons, although she accepted the loss with resignation and fortitude. She adds, however, "No, it's the small losses in life that cut one to the heart—the loss of all that other people look upon as almost nothing." Hilda wants to know what things are meant, to which Mrs. Solness rejoins, "As I say, only little things. All the old portraits were burnt on the walls. And all the old silk dresses were burnt that had belonged to the family for generations and generations. And all mother's and grandmother's lace—that was burnt too. And only think—the jewels too! (Sadly.) And then all the dolls . . . I had nine lovely dolls." They were the dolls of her childhood; the dolls and Mrs. Solness had gone on living together even after her marriage. The dolls were to her most cherished treasures, for does she not pathetically declare, "I carried them under my heart—like little unborn children." How often have you and I seen this sort of feeling in our friends. Men and women alike, we all have our dolls, things which we carry under our heart; things the loss of which we should regard as a calamity be they ever so small in value. I am persuaded that just as the small losses in life cut one to the heart, so the small pleasures, the trifling delights of existence, quaketh greatest amount of real joy. It's the little courtesies of this world that make life worth living. And, pray, do you say what in the world has all this to do with sport and sporting men?

THE LITTLE LOVES OF SPORTSMEN.

I will show you. Sportsmen are ordinary mortals the same as most of us. They have the same weaknesses, the same little loves, the same strengths, the same passions as the rest of the world. There are those who regard sportsmen as very much lower than the angels, and closely akin to the imps of darkness. They look upon sportsmen as brutal, vulgar, low, unrefined, selfish, pleasure-seeking animals, who have small knowledge of the amenities of life, and no sympathy with its minor phases. I can assure you, however, that sportsmen are out to the heart by small losses, and have their little loves, weaknesses, pet objects and fancies, the same as the best of us. I have known many strong men who go on living with dolls under their heart. Such enjoyment is not confined to one sex. Men, sporting men, suffer badly from dolls. As a matter of fact, sportsmen pay more attention to the small things than any other section of the community, and as a body I think they are more superstitious. I never yet met an enthusiastic sport who had not some little "love" concealed in his breast, who bowed down to some fetish, and who would not be eligible as a member of the Thirteen Club. Did you ever know a sportsman who did not believe in luck? Gamblers, who are also sporting men, invariably refer to their being in or out of luck in the course of conversation. I have known in the course of a funeral on the way to a man who, having seen a funeral on the way to a race-course, regarded it as a bad omen, and declined to bet that day. Sportsmen are usually averse to walking under ladders, spilling salt, and breaking mirrors. Some men regard themselves as unlucky over particular races, and as unable to score on certain grounds. I have known teams so impregnated with the idea that they cannot win on a certain ground are unable to score until the spell cannot be broken, and the will to win is practically obliterated. For instance, the Blackburn Rovers have never yet during teams of years beaten the Bolton Wanderers on the latter's own ground at Pike's-lane. And the Rovers never will until they believe it is possible for them to conquer on that playing piece. But this, as the Irishman says is a "dale reshun," and has not too intimate a bearing on the little loves of sportsmen, except in so far as demonstrating how human even those outseeing sporting people are.

H. B. DAFT'S "DOLLS."

I was reading the papers the other day—a habit I sometimes have—as Bismarck said when he saved the life of his groom who was drowning; and I saw a letter from Major St. Leger Moore, late of the "Blue" Lancers, in which he said:—"The first match at polo ever played in Great Britain was played on Houndow Heath in the summer of 1871 between the 9th Lancers and 10th Hussars. We played eight-a-side, and with a small, bone or ivory ball, which I have now in my possession, and ash sticks." Note the words, "A small bone or ivory ball, which I have now in my possession." Doubtless Major St. Leger Moore cherishes this little love of a ball as dearly as Mrs. Solness did her dolls. For 23 years has he carefully placed it in an honoured position in his household. Surely, we who preserve our best programmes of concerts, suites of plays, menu cards, ball-room cards, rosettes of offices, &c., &c., can appreciate and understand the feeling—the nursing relics and objects of the past. One evening, some years ago, I was invited out to dine with Mr. Richard Daft, at his residence at Radcliff-on-Trent. At that time H. B. Daft was unmarried, and shared a bedroom with his eldest brother "R. P." under the paternal roof. You should have seen his bedroom. Well nigh from floor to ceiling were the walls covered with pictures and prints of sporting celebrities of all kinds for years past. Some of them were rich and rare, and there was no chance of mistaking the tastes of the occupiers of the room. Many of the illustrations had been pasted on the walls in childhood's happy hours and were now the little loves, the dolls, of smart young sportsmen. Nor is this all. Well do I remember Larry Daft lifting a tall oval glass shade, like that which usually covers statuettes, and showing me his velvet international football caps—which the Association gives each season to those who play against Scotland, Wales, and Ireland. They are rich pieces of headgear, and have the year of playing embroidered on the peak, and distinctive colours for each encounter. I think he had three at that time. I was struck with the loving care displayed in arranging them neatly under a glass case to keep the dirt away from them, and the tender and admiring style in which he spread them out on the digits of his left hand and held the caps up to view. Those caps will be his little loves, his dolls, and maybe will be handed on to his children, for Mr. Harry Butler Daft has given hostages to Fortune.

THE FADS OF FOOTBALLERS.

But football players seem much attached to little loves and weaknesses. How fond they are of loading their watch chains with medals won in cup or other competitions; how often do those who are international players love to decorate their breasts with the English arms, and what little loves and pet weaknesses they contract in reference to their boots. One man will dote on the well-made Scotch boots, and another on English ware. One player abhors studs and likes bars on the soles while another favours bars and detests studs. Some like heavy and others light foot-gear, and you may depend upon it that any footballer who has studied the game and his own style of play and capabilities has his little loves in regard to all these details. One celebrated international with whom I have had converse had very pronounced notions as to the making of football boots and the best way to preserve them for use. His theories have worked out so well that one pair of boots have been known to last him for a whole season, which is an unusual circumstance with a professional. But this question of boots is one of the little loves of his life, and if he talks to me about football he is certain to mention his pet theory. He has tasted it and not found it wanting.

SOME CRICKET CHATTER.

And cricketers have their little loves. One man likes a bat with the handle all cane, another with a mixture of cork and cane, another with cork, cane, and whalebone, and another with cane and whalebone. One prefers his handle with the plain cork wound round it, another with an indiarubber one over it, and yet another with wash-leather. Each man has his little love, his pet weakness in regard to weight, grain of wood, and treatment of blade. Some like the bare blade, and refuse to use a blade around which waxed twine has been wound, the same as on the handle to strengthen or protect some damaged part of a favourite implement. A good bat is a highly prized jewel, and I know some amateurs who have preserved their bats for years. They are very loath to part with a tried and trusted ally. Many a time have I heard a cricketing friend say, "I adore that bat of mine. You know there's lots of runs in it. They only want bringing out." This is a pleasant piece of humour to chaff a fellow with, to bring up in judgment against him when the fortune of war has ended in his "bagging a brace of duck eggs." And the horror of breaking a favourite bat. Oh, willow, willow, waly ho! Only those that are run-getters know the acute sorrow of losing a bat. Some eight years ago, Mr. J. A. Dixon had over-played and over-trained himself at football. He looked very pale and worn, and friends shook their heads about such an excellent man as Johnny Dixon. The present captain of Notts was not the sort of man to pine himself away. He carefully took his favourite bat, one with a lot of runs in it, to a cricket outfitting firm, and asked them to take care of his bat until the next season. Then he packed his trunk and proceeded on a voyage to Australia. When he returned his little love, his cherished bat, well preserved and well oiled, was waiting for him. It was so full of runs and so was its master that Mr. J. A. Dixon speedily took that position in first-class cricket which he had long deserved, but had failed to obtain owing to nervousness. His bat was his doll. It was carried under his heart, and doubtless many a time when he saw cricket in Australia his mind returned to the trusted blade confided to skilful hands at home. And then I recollect Mr. K. S. Ranjitsinhji, before he was known to fame as a cricketer of class, writing to Arthur Shrewsbury, not for a lock of his hair, because the great Arthur has not one to spare but for an old bat. Shrewsbury, honoured by such a mark of favour from an Indian prince, presented Ranjitsinhji with the bat with which he compiled his many mammoth scores in 1895 prior to setting out for his long jaunt in the Australian colonies. The young Oriental noble was so pleased with this gift that in return he sent the Nottingham cricketer a handsome portrait of himself and his entourage attached thereto. Now both Shrewsbury and Ranjitsinhji will prize these pledges of admiration. They will be numbered amongst the little loves, the pet weaknesses, the "dolls" of sportsmen.

MORE CRICKET CURIOS.

Nor in this sort of fetish worship confined to bats. It extends to balls used in historic matches and on momentous occasions. I know that Alfred Shaw has a cricket ball beautifully mounted in silver. It is a little love, and will become a cherished heirloom. Away on the Yorkshire moorland I have no books of reference, but if I trust to my memory aright, it is the ball with which Alfred Shaw took the whole ten wickets in a single innings of a first-class match—and that I fancy was a North and South contest at Lords. Of course, the detail is insignificant, but the broad facts are true. Then I recall a famous encounter, either England and Australia, or the celebrated contest between Smokers which it is stated that the Governor of the Colony has been guilty of favouritism and nepotism, and has abused his trust for the sake of his son. I say it is a lie, and I say it in my place in Council. —Westminster Budget.

"KEATING'S LOZENGES."
KEATING'S LOZENGES.

"A SIMPLE FACT ABOUT" KEATING'S COUGH LOZENGES. Ask throughout the world, in any country that can be named, you will find them largely sold. There is absolutely no remedy that is so speedy in giving relief, so certain to cure, and yet the most delicate can take them.

"A TERRIBLE COUGH."
"A TERRIBLE COUGH."

"91, Commercial Road, Peckham, July 13.
"DEAR SIR,—I am very hard at expressing my feelings, but I should like to thank you. Your lozenges have done wonders in relieving my terrible cough. Since I had the operation of 'Tracheotomy' (the same as the late Emperor of Germany, and unlike him, thank God, I am still alive) performed at St. Bartholomew's Hospital, no one could possibly have had a more violent cough; it was so bad at times that it quite exhausted me. The nausea, which was very common and hard, has been relieved, and I have been able to get rid of it without difficulty.—I am, sir, yours truly, J. HILL."

UTTERLY UNRIVALLED.
UTTERLY UNRIVALLED.

The above speaks for itself. From strict inquiry it appears that the benefit from using Keating's Cough Lozenges is understated. The operation was a specially severe one, and was performed by the specialist, Dr. E. F. Satin, of St. Bartholomew's Hospital. Since the operation the only means of relief is the use of these Lozenges. So successful are they that one affords immediate benefit, although from the nature of the case the throat irritation is intense.

WEIGHT IN GOLD.
WEIGHT IN GOLD.

Under date Sept. 8th, 1891, Mr. Hill again writes: "I should long since have been dead, but for your Lozenges—they are worth their weight in gold. I will gladly see and tell anyone what a splendid cough remedy they are."

Keating's Cough Lozenges, the marvellous remedy for COUGHS, HOARSENESS, and THROAT TROUBLES, are sold in Bottles by all Chemists. [1445

THE LATEST INVENTION.

SKULL'S PATENT OKONITE TRUSSES for most perfect and unique instruments ever offered to the public as mechanical supports and remedial appliances for any form of rupture or internal prolapse. These trusses are of the best possible manufacture; they are self-adjusting, light, and comfortable. The external surface being completely covered with a non-absorbent material (Okonite) renders them absolutely impervious to moisture, perspiration, and the acid excretions of the skin, cannot rot or get out of order, cause no cutaneous irritation, will hold securely any size protusion without pain or undue pressure, the neither undersharps, levers, nor numerous fastenings, may be washed when necessary with impunity, and can therefore be worn any length of time in any climate without becoming offensive, as is the case with those constructed of leather, elastic, and other objectionable materials of a porous character.

THE LANCET.—"Skull's Okonite Trusses are the most effective we have ever noticed."

BRITISH MEDICAL JOURNAL.—"They are scientifically constructed, and give perfect support in all cases."

MEDICAL PRESS AND CIRCULAR.—"Will no doubt come into general use."

REGISTERED MEDICAL NEWS.—"We can with every confidence recommend them to all sufferers from Hernia (Rupture) and Prolapsus."

Awards:—Gold Medal, Paris (1889). Gold Medal, "World's Fair," Chicago (1893).

Common Quality. Medium Quality. Best Quality.
PRICES — 25/6 30/6 45/6 each single „ 51/- 71/- 91/- „ double

Measurements required.—The entire circumference round the body two inches below the top of the hips. State if the rupture is on the right, left, or both sides of the body, or at the navel, and about the size of the protusion.

THE magnificent Steamships of this Line pass through the famous INLAND SEA OF JAPAN, and usually make the voyage YOKOHAMA TO VANCOUVER (B.C.) in 12 DAYS, making close connection at Vancouver with the PALATIAL TRANS-CONTINENTAL TRAINS of the CANADIAN PACIFIC RAILWAY leaving there daily, and cross the Continent FROM THE PACIFIC TO THE ATLANTIC WITHOUT CHANGE. Close connection is made at Montreal, Quebec, Halifax, New York and Boston with all Trans-Atlantic Lines, which passengers to Great Britain and the Continent are given choice of.

Passengers Booked through to all principal points and AROUND THE WORLD. Return tickets to various points at reduced rates. Good for 4, 6, 9, and 12 months.

SPECIAL RATES (First class only) granted to Missionaries, Members of the Naval, Military, Diplomatic, and Civil Services, and to European Officials in the Service of China and Japan Governments.

CIRCULAR PACIFIC TICKETS Hongkong to Vancouver, Vancouver to Sydney Australia, viâ Honolulu, and Sydney to Hongkong viâ Brisbane and Torres Straits. Good for 9 months. £100.

The attractive features of this Company's route embraces its PALATIAL STEAMSHIPS (second to none in the World), the LUXURIANCE OF ITS TRANS-CONTINENTAL TRAINS (the Company having received the highest award for same at recent Chicago World's Exhibition), and the diversity of MAGNIFICENT MOUNTAIN AND LAKE SCENERY through which the Line passes.

THE DINING CARS and MOUNTAIN HOTELS of this route are owned and operated by the Company, and their appointments and Cuisine are unexcelled.
